BHP moves ahead with Stage 2 of the Jansen Potash Project

■ media release

BHP announced Oct. 31, 2023 the approval of an investment of $6.4 billion for Stage 2 of the Jansen potash project (Jansen Stage 2), doubling BHP's investment in potash as the company builds one of the world's largest potash mines.

This follows BHP's approval of $7.5 billion for stage one of the Jansen potash project (Jansen Stage 1) in August 2021, and a pre-Jansen Stage 1 investment of $4.9 billion.

President, Potash, BHP Simon Thomas provided the following letter on the progress of BHP's project and what it could mean for the local area:

It is with great excitement to share that Stage 2 of the Jansen Potash project has been approved! This means that we will embark on the expansion of the Jansen potash mine, building on the fantastic progress that we have made on Jansen Stage 1, which was approved in August 2021. It also means significant additional investment for the project and the region. With approved investment of $6.4 billion for Stage 2, it nearly doubles our initial investment to build one of the world's most modern and largest potash mines.

Following a great summer season, construction of Jansen Stage 1 is now about 32 percent complete and is expected to deliver first production by late-2026. Construction of Jansen Stage 2 is anticipated to take approximately six years and to deliver first production in BHP's fiscal year 2029. Once both stages are online, Jansen is expected to produce approximately 8.5 million tonnes per annum of potash.

It has been incredible to be a part of the Jansen journey so far – and to be apart of this amazing community. With Jansen Stage 2, BHP will create even more jobs and opportunities for local businesses. We will need over 2,000 contractors at peak construction and more than 300 local Saskatchewan-based roles once production commences. This means that over 2,000 construction jobs will be required for more than three years beyond the completion of Jansen Stage 1 for the ongoing works to complete Jansen Stage 2 and an anticipated 900 full-time roles at BHP. There are so many opportunities – not only in the trades but roles like entry level positions in administration and management. We want people to know what a great and diverse place the sector is to build a career.

The approval of Stage 2 also brings increased contractor opportunities for local, provincial and Indigenous business to the tune of about $500 million – across the whole project this will represent more than $1 billion in contract opportunities.

At BHP we are deliberate in our approach to build Jansen with sustainability at the forefront – meaning lower green house gas emissions per tonne of product and less fresh water use than the average potash mine in the region. We know this is incredibly important, as not only does it reduce our impact on the environment and the land, but it allows us to be a better neighbour for those living in and around the site.

Globally, the need for potash is growing and Saskatchewan is best positioned to responsibly provide this product to the world.

As we move ahead at Jansen, we invite everyone to connect with us to learn about job opportunities, project updates and how we are working with local communities to create shared benefit. Visit our website at bhp.com/betterfuture

Remembrance Day service relocates to Lanigan Town Hall

■ Daniel Bushman

Taking a moment to reflect, remember and to pause, people will be gathering for Remembrance Day events Saturday, Nov. 11. Over the past few years, the Royal Canadian Legion Branch #143 in Lanigan has held its local service virtually from the Legion Hall; however, this year it will return to the Lanigan Town Hall.

President of the Lanigan Legion Branch #143 Jim Hatcher said the service will be similar to those in recent years but will be open to the public to attend. "We are having the Remembrance Day service at the Lanigan Town Hall, which is the first time there in three years. The service will start at 10:45 a.m. with a march in and welcome and then at 11 a.m. the official service starts. Following the service we will be sharing some highlights from our local branch from this past year. We are excited to be back there since the start of the pandemic and in the past we had up to 250 people there. We are also hoping to stream the service on our Facebook page as well which we have done the past few years."

In recognition of Veterans and current members of the Canadian Armed Forces, local Legion Branch #143 members will once again be placing wreaths in front of the cenotaph and the names of those who served will be read. Hatcher said those purchasing a wreath this year can send payment to P.O. Box 277 in Lanigan.

"We sincerely appreciate everyone for taking time to honour our Veterans through purchasing a wreath, wearing a poppy and taking time to pause on Remembrance Day. That is just something we can never ever forget because of everything we enjoy today was at a very high cost. As everybody can see around the world right now, it is not very nice. Our military are still active and as a Legion, we support our government, war efforts and peacekeeping."

In addition to their Saturday service, the local branch also launched its poppy campaign. According to the Royal Canadian Legion, every year from the last Friday of October to Nov. 11, tens of millions of Canadians wear a poppy as a visual pledge to ministrative Officer (CAO), Kelli Timmerman at a regular council meeting on Aug. 14, 2023. The decision of Council was made after a four to three agrees democracy was served with the decision-making process and has accepted the outcome of the vote. Though the session was not unanimous, democracy was served. The council is now committed to moving forward with its new CAO, Albert Headrick.

Council wishes to thank Kelli for her dedicated services over the last few years and wish her all the best with her future endeavours.

Code of Ethics investigations initiated

media release

The Town of Lanigan’s Council has received four formal Code of Ethics complaints involving four individual councilors. Council is responding to the complaints by initiating four Code of Ethics investigations. Three complaints are from citizens, and one complaint is from a council member.

These investigations will be completed by Bloom Centre for Municipal Education, and will include reviews, interviews, analysis, and summarizations that will be compiled into four independent final reports. Such investigations will be subject to a fair and impartial process in accordance with best practices and the Saskatchewan Municipalities Act.

The process to date:

- Council received four alleged contraventions of the Code of Ethics.
- Two complaints were presented to Council at a regular council meeting and discussed at an in-camera session.
- Two complaints were presented and discussed at an in-camera session.
- Council discussed the contraventions of the Code of Ethics Bylaw and determined the complaints require formal, third-party investigations.

- Bloom Centre for Municipal Education has been named to be the investigator for the four investigations.
  - The investigation plan has established a tentative Nov. 23, 2023 date for the investigations to be completed.
  - Council will make an informed decision once the investigation is complete and the investigation reports are submitted.
  - Council may, by resolution, impose specific and appropriate penalties depending on the severity of the contravention, if the complaint is valid.
  - Council will inform the claimant, member of Council, or other relevant part of the Council’s decision, and the remedial actions imposed.
- As noted, the investigations will take several weeks to complete.
- All municipalities in Saskatchewan are required by the Municipalities Act (Code of Ethics 93.1.) to have a Code of Ethics Bylaw. The Town of Lanigan’s Code of Ethics Bylaw, No.

7/16, was established in 2017. The Bylaw sets expectations for how council members should conduct themselves while carrying out their responsibilities and establishes a review and investigation process when a complaint is received.

More information will be released as the investigation is completed.

raised are then used to help others. "Over the years, we have put the money back into the community towards things like equipment at the hospital including wheelchairs and beds. We also keep money available for any Veterans and their families who may require some help and we also support the local cadet squadron."

Hatcher noted the local Legion is also lending a hand with a national program called Leave the Streets Behind. "Leave the Streets Behind is the Legion's national homeless Veterans program that started out of Ontario Command. The program's mission is to reach out to homeless Veterans and those at-risk of homelessness and provide them with immediate financial assistance and support. It is also operated out of Saskatchewan and connects Veterans with the social and community services to establish a long-term solution to meet their needs. It is a good program and we are pleased to be able to contribute to it."

As for the local branch itself, following some tough times financially while seeking new members, Hatcher said this past year was incredible. "We have 18 new members giving Royal Canadian Legion Branch #143 in Lanigan 28 members. We also were approved for a grant so we were able to rebuild the basement of the Legion Hall to rent it out for functions and we repainted the building. We are doing all kinds of work on it with more to come because of another grant. We have also done fundraisers like raffles, a golf tournament, barbecues and we will be having card games and darts coming up. Everything is on the up and up and more potential members are talking about coming in too. We really appreciate the support we have had."

Sharing that anyone can sign up to be a member, Hatcher noted the local youth are also important to the Lanigan Legion Branch #143. A supporter of youth and the creative work they do through the Remembrance Day poster and literacy contest, locally Hatcher said, "We have kids from Drake and Lanigan who participate and some of the artwork and writing that these kids do is unreal. Some of the work has advanced past the local level and is judged at the zone, district and provincial levels as well."

Offering the literacy and poster contest for students, Hatcher feels it is also important for the younger generation to hear about Remembrance Day and the sacrifices many made both at home and abroad. "If we don't do that, the youth don't really know what Remembrance Day is all about. Over time things can be forgotten and we want our young people to know what it was like years ago."

Students honoured for efforts during literary and poster contest

■ Daniel Bushman

Taking time to remember, recognize and reflect on the wars and the sacrifices made by those who served, remained at home and also those who fled their countries for safer places, students from Drake and Lanigan schools created poems and posters as part of the Royal Canadian Legion's literary and poster contest.

Dianne Bartel with local Royal Canadian Legion, Branch #143 provided the 2022 results from Drake and Lanigan elementary schools along with the Lanigan Branch #143 level winners. From those, Bartel noted two recipients advanced to the Zone 2 level for judging.

"On behalf of Royal Canadian Legion Branch #143, once again we were really pleased with the quality of work submitted by the students," said Bartel. "They are very talented in their writing and drawing. Special congratulations to all of the students and their hard work!"

We Remember

Not Just A Day
Remembrance Day is the day
When we recognize
Those who fought and were lost

In a world of war
An unforgiving time and place
Those that were lost are honoured
Recognized and remembered

Loved for giving their own life for ours
November 11 is the day
To be grateful
To the individuals who Helped protect all

In a world of war and hate
Those who pushed it to the limit
Who served on the front line
We all should be grateful

If it weren't for the soldiers fighting
We may still be in a world
Of war and hate
Disagreement and conflict

November 11 is not just a day
It's a day to show
What the soldier's sacrifices mean to you

Viscount

Sandra Reid • 306-227-1193

Today as I write this news, it is Nov. 1! Wow, the days and months seem to be going faster every year.

Halloween was here and gone. We had around 70 children and last year was 58. I cannot remember the last time we had that many treaters. It was awesome. There was some pretty awesomely decorated yards in town for Halloween.

The Gr. 11/12 students helped the Gr. 1/2 class carve and decorate pumpkins at Viscount Central School.

The Viscount library held its bi-monthly craft and book night Wednesday, Oct. 25. Twenty-one children attended the Halloween party! There were crafts, games, books to read and treats to be had. A great time was had by all.

Oct. 26, Viscount Library Book Club met to discuss our first book entitled The Book Woman of Troublesome Creek by Kim Michele Richardson. Eight ladies discussed the very unusual and rare condition of a genetic disorder called methemoglobinemia which causes those who are afflicted with it to have blue-tinted skin. The novel is set in the Appalachian Mountains in Kentucky back in 1936. The main character of the book worked for the Pack Horse Library Project of Kentucky (this actually was a service) delivering books and other reading material to people up in the hills and mountains around Troublesome Creek. Known as Bluet (due to her blue skin) she experiences prejudice and discrimination, yet is determined that her role as pack horse librarian is worth her troubles. The group found this book enjoyable and some have even ordered the sequel, The Book Woman's Daughter. Our new book is Cilka's Journey by Heather Morris.

A Halloween party for all ages was held at Viscount Central School by the Viscount Childcare Centre Saturday, Oct. 28.

Four ladies spent Monday afternoon, Oct. 30 at the Viscount library joining squares to make blankets and finished two, one baby and one youth. It is interesting just how many topics we cover during our three hours together. Our most talked about subject is food (then we have a cup of tea and a snack, lol). Do come join us sometime. Check with Evelina first to see if we will be there as sometimes we miss a week here and there (306-281-8196).

Pickleball is still happening Monday and Wednesday evenings. As a player, I can say it is so much fun!

Best wishes to anyone who is under the weather. I hope you feel better soon. Welcome to November and have a great week!

uncomplICAteD - Kindness Shines The Brightest In A Darkened World - And Spirit

by Arlene Martin

I was watching television when the unthinkable horrors of cruelty in Israel on Oct. 7 interrupted normal broadcasting. Later when the images of unimaginable atrocities of Hamas began appearing I shut off the television and wept.

In a world where darkness casts its long, foreboding shadow, I find it is hard not to feel overwhelmed. Several ruthless wars raging with so little regard for life, mass shootings shattering lives, natural disasters striking with unrelenting force. It's a constant barrage of pain and suffering.

Recently, our son Ross, on his return from, selling his hand-crafted steel sculptures at a local tradeshow, handed me several items. Two unexpected and also homespun gifts. They came from his neighbours, whom he has mentioned, are touched by the words I share in this space every week.

The surprises included a delicate beautiful silver and sky-blue beaded bracelet, lovingly crafted by their granddaughter. The other package filled to the brim with my favourite delicious chocolate treats! A labour of love, shared with a generosity of spirit from wonderful, generous friends I have yet to meet - united by the power of connection through my weekly stories.

As I held these gifts in my hands, I was reminded of the incredible capacity for goodness that resides within each of us. The kindness from the family who gave them to me transcends words. It was a beautiful gesture and reminder that amidst life's misfortunes and heartbreaks - there are still compassionate and safe harbours.

I have thought about those gifts so many times and how they shifted my focus away from the devastating darkness and towards the glimmers of light that persistently fight to be seen. Despite the horrors that haunt our world - kindness ever and always persists and remind me to be thankful. Kindness is a force more powerful than any darkness lurking in the moments and nights ahead.

The chocolate treats I love are almost gone, with difficult discipline I have savoured them. The pretty bracelet sits atop my dresser and happies me up just with a quick glance. Thank you dear neighbours. And to everyone else who reads my words weekly. Thank you.

With gratitude, love Arlene!

P.S. I did notice the tiny cat sticker tucked inside the package with the lovely bracelet. It made me smile and I have kept it as a reminder that Heaven urges us all to reach out and touch one another with kindness. These small, but significant acts of goodness recap that even in the darkest times, there is light.

(If this seems a bit disjointed and repetitive, an outdoor cat, Peanut, refuses to go in our cozy warm cat sheds so we have brought her indoors. Often I am settling altercations with our other indoor felines as they decide whether Peanut is friend or foe. She requires constant attention figuring out boundaries and I have removed comments added from her little paws walking across my laptop keyboard. And - also a husband who likes to chatter while I am creating words and thoughts and sentences!! It's still ALL good!)

Thank you!

A super thank you to everyone who came by Watrous Home Hardware on Halloween! Thank you for donating food, cash, toys, and purchasing pumpkins to help scare away hunger! Thanks to our Home Hardware staff and their families who helped organize this event and those who maintained and harvested the Home Hardware Charity Garden. This year the garden provided the Watrous Food Bank with fresh pumpkins, carrots, corn, beets, cucumbers, zucchini and over 700 pounds of potatoes!
