Virtual Remembrance Day service being conducted at Lanigan Legion Branch #143

■ Daniel Bushman

A time to pause. A time to reflect. A time to remember. As people from across the nation take in Remembrance Day ceremonies Nov. 11, members of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch #143 in Lanigan are also planning a local service.

Like in 2020 and 2021, President of the Lanigan Legion Branch #143 Jim Hatcher said they decided to hold a virtual ceremony Nov. 11. “After having our service held virtually at the Legion Hall in Lanigan the past two years during the pandemic, we decided that we will be doing so once again in 2022. We will only be having Legion members in attendance along with dignitaries who will be speaking or singing at the service. Like in previous years, we will start at 10:45 a.m. and the event from Royal Canadian Legion Branch #143 can be viewed live on our Facebook page.”

In recognition of Veterans and current members of the Canadian Armed Forces, local Legion Branch #143 members will once again be placing wreaths in front of the cenotaph and the names of those who served will be read.

Those purchasing a wreath this year can send payment to P.O. Box 277 in Lanigan and Hatcher said, “We sincerely appreciate everyone for taking time to honour our Veterans through purchasing a wreath, wearing a poppy and taking time to pause on Remembrance Day.”

With services like the one in Lanigan being held virtually, Hatcher encouraged people to take time to remember on Nov. 11. “It is such a big important part of our history that we remember what these people did because what we have today is because of what they did then. We still have active forces out there and people are getting injured or killed defending our country.”

In addition to their service on Friday, Hatcher said the local branch also launched its poppy campaign Oct. 28. According to the Royal Canadian Legion, every year from the last Friday of October to Nov. 11, tens of millions of Canadians wear a poppy as a visual pledge to honour Canada’s Veterans and remember those who sacrificed for the freedoms people enjoy today.

Through the local poppy campaign, funds raised are then used to help others. “Over the years, we have put the money back into the community towards things like equipment at the hospital including wheelchairs and beds. We also keep money available for any Veterans and their families who may require some help and we also support the local cadet squadron.”

Hatcher noted the local Legion is also lending a hand with a national program called Leave the Streets Behind. “Leave the Streets Behind is the Legion’s national homeless Veterans program that started out of Ontario Command. The program’s mission is to reach out to homeless Veterans and those at-risk of homelessness and provide them with immediate financial assistance and support. It is also operated out of Saskatchewan and connects Veterans with the social and community services to establish a long-term solution to meet their needs. It is a good program and we are pleased to be able to contribute to it.”

While the Lanigan Legion Branch #143 does what it can to support others, Hatcher shared the local branch has found itself in a difficult position financially. “Right now we are in need of more members and funds. Many of our current members are unable to fundraise due to ailments and without more people joining, we are unable to pay for the general upkeep of our building. If we cannot raise funds for our facility, we might have to look at selling the building in an effort to keep our local branch in operation.”

Seeking new members and support, Hatcher shared the local youth are also important to the Lanigan Legion Branch #143. A supporter of youth and the creative work they do through the Remembrance Day poster and literacy contest, locally Hatcher said, “We have kids from Drake and Lanigan who participate and some of the artwork and writing that these kids do is unreal. Some of the work has advanced past the local level and is judged at the zone, district and provincial levels as well.”

Offering the literacy and poster contest for students, Hatcher feels it is also important for the younger generation to hear about Remembrance Day and the sacrifices many made both at home and abroad. (see back page: REMEMBRANCE)

Looking for a nice place to spend the winter, on a beautiful late October fall afternoon, this contingent of ladybugs spotted a leafy area around a tree. Curious about why there seems to be so many ladybugs in the fall, according to the Government of Canada’s website, a single ladybug will eat thousands of pest insects in its lifetime. Ladybugs do not sting, transmit disease, or infest food supplies. Of the more than 450 species of ladybugs in North America, only three types feed on plants. In the fall, the multicoloured Asian lady beetle gathers in large numbers looking for a safe and dry place to spend the winter. Attracted to homes and buildings with sunny exposures, they can cluster on outside walls and eventually work their way indoors through cracks and openings. Ladybugs can also produce several generations each year. The adult females lay clusters of 10 to 50 tiny light yellow eggs near aphid colonies. The larvae (hatched eggs) are spiny and mostly black with orange stripes, and look like tiny alligators. These larvae share the adults’ insatiable appetite for aphids.

Warmer than last year's Halloween, trick-or-treaters were able to roam the streets in local communities like Lanigan in search of candy. Following some fun at Lanigan Elementary School (pictured), candy seekers began accumulating their goodies during the latter part of the afternoon and early evening. At Central Parkland Lodge in Lanigan and Manitou Lodge in Watrous, residents were able to see people dressed up as trick-or-treaters stopped outside for candy. At Central Parkland Lodge, some residents were dressed up as 101 Dalmatians. - photos submitted, used with permission

The future of global food security is clear.

It's happening now in Saskatchewan.

As the world's demand for food increases, BHP is building one of the world's largest potash mines.

The BHP Jansen Potash Project will not only be the single largest economic investment in Saskatchewan's history, it will create hundreds of millions of dollars in local procurement and employment opportunities, whilst providing the potash essential to help increase global food production.

The future is clear. It's happening now.

RCMP Report

Homicide in Melville

A Dangerous Person Alert issued in relation to a homicide that occurred in Melville was cancelled Nov. 2 after RCMP confirmed one adult male was deceased and another adult male sustained life-threatening injuries. The injuries and male passing away were a result of a shooting that occurred in the area of the Country Inn Motel in Melville. The injured male was taken to hospital for treatment. Police immediately responded to the area following reports of shots fired Nov. 2. The first report came in at approximately 9:19 a.m.

Initial investigation determined the incident is not believed to be random in nature. As such, there was not a heightened risk to the general public. Should that change, the Saskatchewan RCMP will notify the public immediately.

On Wednesday, RCMP noted there would be an increased police presence in Melville and on roadways in and around the community as the investigation unfolds. The Saskatchewan RCMP Major Crime Unit has taken carriage of the investigation with support from other specialized RCMP units, as well as RCMP Detachments from the surrounding areas.

The suspect or suspects relating to this homicide investigation had not yet been located as of Nov. 2, no arrests had been made, and RCMP do not have additional descriptive information pertaining to the suspect(s). Again, initial investigation has determined that this incident is not believed to be random in nature and there is not believed to be a heightened risk to public safety at this time. Should that change, RCMP will notify the public immediately. The investigation remains ongoing.

Saskatchewan residents are asked to remain vigilant and to report any suspicious activity to police. In an emergency, always call 911. Any tips or information relating to this incident should be reported to police immediately – this includes thefts of vehicles.

Suspicious package in Tisdale

At approximately 5:15 p.m. Oct. 29, Tisdale RCMP received a report of a suspicious package behind a business on 100 Street in Tisdale. Officers immediately responded. Tisdale RCMP along with conservation officers from the Provincial Protective Services Branch, assisted in evacuating nearby buildings and rerouting traffic from the area.

Saskatchewan RCMP's Explosive Disposal Unit (EDU) also responded and seized the package, which contained a small homemade explosive/incendiary device. EDU officers disabled the device.

RCMP officers checked the surrounding area thoroughly and believed there were no further risks to the public in relation to this incident. No injuries were reported.

Tisdale RCMP and the EDU continue to investigate and ask anyone with information to contact the Tisdale Detachment at 306-878-

3810. Information can also be submitted anonymously by contacting Crime

Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477) or www.saskcrimestoppers.com.

Talented students recognized for efforts during literary and poster contest

■ Daniel Bushman

Remembering, reflecting and recognizing the wars and the sacrifices made by those who served, those who remained at home while loved ones left to fight and also those who fled their countries for safer places, students from Drake and Lanigan schools were recognized as part of the Royal Canadian Legion's literary and poster contest.

While Dianne Bartel with local Royal Canadian Legion, Branch #143 said the deadline for the 2022 entries is not until Nov. 9, she provided 2021 results from Drake and Lanigan elementary schools and the Lanigan Branch #143 level winners. From those, a handful advanced to the Zone 2 and District 4 levels.

"We were really pleased with the quality of work submitted by students," said Bartel. "They are very artistic and also very talented in their writing. Special congratulations to these students!"

Lest we forget.

Joseph

It was a cold storming night as Ann Stadnek was sitting along the side of her bed.

“Oh, how I wish this storm would pass,” she said with her face gloomy.

Knock! Knock!

The door creaked open and a face peeked through.

“Hello, my darling. Have troubles falling asleep?” Ann’s father, Joseph asked.

“Yes. The storm is booming with thunder and striking with lightning,” Ann replied.

“Well, I’m having troubles myself. Do you mind if I pop a squat beside you?” Joseph asked tilting his head at Ann.

“Please come beside me,” Ann says scooching towards the pillow.

Joseph sits beside his beautiful daughter.

“Ann? I need to tell you something,” Joseph explains with a painful face.

“What, what is it?” Ann asks desperately.

“Soon I am going to have to leave to war. I wanted to tell now than never.” Joseph explains.

Tears trail down his cheek.

“B-but why?” Ann asks trying to hold in her tears.

“For our country,” Joseph whispers, “I’m sorry.”

Joseph and his daughter cry for what was to come. The next morning Ann wakes up, smelling pancakes. Ann races downstairs to the kitchen. She takes her seat and starts munching.

“Good morning,” Ann’s mother, Grace says.

“Good morning,” Ann replies.

“Hi, sis!” Ann’s sisters greet.

“Hello,” Ann says, chewing, “Where is dad?” Ann asks.

“Training,” Grace replies, “He’ll be here in the evening.

“Night!” Ann shouts.

“The General planned the soldiers train longer for the war,” Grace explains.

“B-but-” Ann studders.

“Hurry and eat your breakfast. You’re going to be late for school!” Grace demanded.

Ann finishes her food and heads for the school bus. When Ann got home from school, she still saw no sight of her father. In the evening at 9:00 o’clock, Joseph finally comes home.

“Kids! I need to tell you something,” Joseph clarifies.

Ann and her sister race downstairs.

“I have terrible news.” He said, “I have to leave to go to war.”

Joseph gives Ann a beautiful red poppy. “Take this it’s a sign that I will always be here in your heart.

While They Fly

On this day, we remember their worth.
We remember the story of gaining peace on earth.
We remember how they fought and how they died,
We remember these soldiers, and we do it with pride.

This day is used to honour their lives,
Their stories will forever be in our archives.
They fought for our freedom and they did succeed,
We are free! We have peace! But their families still bleed.

The warriors that went out to fight that very day,
They never came home, never walked through their doorway.
Their families were left all alone just to cry,
They didn't get a say, they didn't get to say bye.

We host a moment of silence on days like today,
To remember the men and women who marched away.
They fought through the war, which was such a crime,
For this we pray, and give them our time.

We stand tall for those who lost their days just for ours,
They live on in the sky, just up in the stars.
We wear a red poppy and pin it to our chest,
In memory of those who are finally at rest.

We will never forget what they had to leave behind,
We will never forget how their gestures were so kind.
They have left just for us, and we keep them in our hearts,
Those who died, those who lived, those who gave up many parts.

We can start to repay them with one small favour,
We must remember how they all became our saviours.
To do this we will walk with our heads held up high,
We will live. We will laugh. We will do it while they fly.

Remember

Do you remember the soldiers who fought in the war?
Think of all the muscles they stretched and tore.
They had to leave their family they had to leave their homes,
some only to be burried where all the poppies rome.
Could you imaging being taken away
to a war that is still remembered today?
Do you remember? Can you remember? Will you remember?
Do you remember the gunshots and bombs?
The terrified people found it hard to stay calm.
Think of all the innocent who died unfairly
And all the innocents who died barely.
All this makes me wonder what if there was no war at all.
We'd be laughing and smiling, having a bawl.
We could be oh so carefree,
But we live no such fantasy.
Do you remember? Can you remember? Will you remember?
Do you remember the people who died,
And all those underaged boys who applied?
Think of all the new poppies that grow.
I can see them now. I can see the flow.
They are the brightest red and the purest black.
Now can you think of the children who couldn't look back?
The pain the families felt letting their boys go
It turned a lot of people depressed. I just know.
Do you remember? Can you remember? Will you remember?
Do you remember the war stories we tell?
I can remember. I remember then well.
What about the hidden bombs that killed many kids?
They were all set to obbay the enemy's bids.
Think of how free some of us are.
Now think of the people who are not. Near and far.
I do remember. I can remember. I will remember.

IN MEMORY

LUTZ - Jeff, Apr. 29, 1962 - Nov. 11, 2020:

Gone, but not forgotten
When tomorrow starts without me
Please try to understand
An angel came and called me,
And took me by the hand.
The angel said my place was ready
In heaven far above
and that I'd have to leave
Those that I dearly love.
Then when I walked through heaven's gates
I felt so much at home
God looked down and smiled at me,
and told me "Welcome home."
So when tomorrow starts without me,
don't think we are far apart,
for every time you think of me,
I'm right there in your heart!
- Oz, Lorna and family.

Bavarian Apple Torte

Ingredients:
Pan spray a 9x13 pan. Set aside.
Bottom Layer
1/2 cup butter
1/4 tsp. vanilla
1/3 cup sugar
1 cup flour
Mix well and press into bottom of pan.
Second Layer
8 oz. pkg of brick cream cheese
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 tsp. vanilla
Combine well and pour on bottom layer.
Third Layer
1/3 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
4 cups thinly sliced and peeled apples (about five to six)
Directions:
Spread on top trying to keep the apples evenly piled on top. Top with about 3/4 cup slivered almonds. Bake at 375°F for about 30 to 35 minutes. Cool, serve with whipped cream or ice cream. I have also made this with fresh peaches or pears.

“If we don’t do that, the youth don’t really know what Remembrance Day is all about. Over time things can be forgotten and we want our young people to know what it was like years ago.”

For Hatcher, like so many others, Nov. 11 has become a day for reflection. “I lost an uncle who was 19 years old during WWII. He was in the trenches and it was his time to move, he stood up and it was over. I had a lot of uncles who were in the forces and only one did not come back home. It is important to take time to remember all of those who served. From soldiers that have gone before us to the officers and surviving Veterans today, we pause to remember and honour them. The chance that I have to live in this country and enjoy the freedom it brings is pretty awesome.”

November is here and it looks like a busy month. Soon we will be shovelling snow.

There was a supper held Nov. 6 for former community club members.

Quilting will start at the church very soon.

There will be a holiday

Nov. 11 for Remembrance Day. Remember to wear your poppy.

A funeral will be held Nov. 13 for Darlene Rucks.

I am sorry to hear of the passing of Melissa Brooks dad in Shellbrook.

Happy birthday to Rita Paetsch and Colleen Manyk.

Sandra Reid • 306-227-1193

Welcome to the month of November, a little quieter month.

Oct. 31, Halloween day, a group of ladies joined together at the Viscount library for Blankets for Canada. We were a group of five and we kept busy putting squares together to make more blankets to donate to shelters etc. It is that time of year where the blankets we donate are very much needed. If you have any yarn or squares to donate it would be greatly appreciated. Call Evelina at 306-944-4820 or drop by the library Monday afternoon. If you are interested in participating we can always lend a hand to show you what we do.

I am looking forward to the Viscount seniors hosting a crib tournament Nov. 19. It is so nice to be having events.

Congratulations to Kim and Julie Tetzlaff on the Oct. 28 arrival of a new granddaughter Julia Belle and to proud parents Elina and Lindsay Watt. Have a great week!
